

42 U.S. Code § 285I-6

Methods of controlling certain insect and vermin populations

The Director of the Institute shall conduct or support research to identify or develop methods of controlling insect and vermin populations that transmit to humans diseases that have significant adverse health consequences.

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login