

40 C.F.R. § 1037.201

General requirements for obtaining a certificate of conformity.

- (a) You must send us a separate application for a certificate of conformity for each vehicle family. A certificate of conformity is valid from the indicated effective date until the end of the model year for which it is issued. You must renew your certification annually for any vehicles you continue to produce.
- (b) The application must contain all the information required by this part and must not include false or incomplete statements or information (see § 1037.255).
- (c) We may ask you to include less information than we specify in this subpart, as long as you maintain all the information required by § 1037.250.
