

40 C.F.R. § 230.24

Normal water fluctuations.

- (a) Normal water fluctuations in a natural aquatic system consist of daily, seasonal, and annual tidal and flood fluctuations in water level. Biological and physical components of such a system are either attuned to or characterized by these periodic water fluctuations.

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login