

29 C.F.R. § 18.405

Methods of proving character.

(a) Reputation of opinion. In all cases in which evidence of character or a trait of character of a person is admissible, proof may be made by testimony as to reputation or by testimony in the form of an opinion. On cross-examination, inquiry is allowable into relevant specific instances of conduct.

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login