
42 C.F.R. § 414.506

Procedures for public consultation for payment for a new clinical diagnostic laboratory test.

For a new CDLT, CMS determines the basis for and amount of payment after performance of the following:

- (a) CMS makes available to the public (through CMS's Internet Web site) a list that includes codes for which establishment of a payment amount is being considered for the next calendar year.
- (b) CMS publishes a Federal Register notice of a meeting to receive public comments and recommendations (and data on which recommendations are based) on the appropriate basis, as specified in § 414.508, for establishing payment amounts for the list of codes made available to the public.
- (c) Not fewer than 30 days after publication of the notice in the Federal Register, CMS convenes a meeting that includes representatives of CMS officials involved in determining payment amounts, to receive public comments and recommendations (and data on which the recommendations are based).
