

42 C.F.R. § 93.108

Confidentiality.

- (a) Disclosure of the identity of respondents and complainants in research misconduct proceedings is limited, to the extent possible, to those who need to know, consistent with a thorough, competent, objective and fair research misconduct proceeding, and as allowed by law. Provided, however, that:

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login