

Are Companies Prepared for State-Level Data Privacy Bills? Are Companies Prepared for State-Level Data Privacy Bills?

Bill Tolson, V.P. Global Compliance & eDiscovery, Archive 360.

2022-09-01

- Definitions for personally identifiable information can vary from state to state and country to country. This webinar will help in identifying the most widely defined PII attributes.
- Most privacy laws include a series of specific data-subject access rights. This webinar will discuss the most common privacy rights and the requirements companies have when responding to Data Subject Access Requests (DSARs).
- Most privacy laws are global in nature. We will explore what the global reach of these laws mean for companies in other jurisdictions.
- The federal government has not yet passed a country-wide privacy law. We will talk about how a federal privacy law could affect the various state privacy laws and what that would mean for organizations.

This document is only available to subscribers

Purchase