

Real-World Artificial Intelligence Applications for Compliance Professionals

Christian Focacci, Vice President, Offering Management, Steele.

January 8, 2020

- This presentation will cover the basics of artificial intelligence and will explore how AI and machine learning can enhance compliance methods
- We will go over real world machine learning applications, specifically relating to compliance, and provide specific ways companies are adopting the new tech developments today, including a framework for evaluating the applicability of new machine learning solutions

This document is only available to subscribers

Purchase