

GDPR Compliance Post-Mortems: Lessons Learned from Facebook, Uber, and Others

Scott M. Giordano, Vice President, Data Protection, Spirion.

September 15, 2019

- In the nearly 18 months since the EU GDPR was brought into force, several well-known companies have been penalized by EU data protection authorities for misuse and loss of personal data.
- In this session, we will review these post-mortems, determine what went wrong, and discuss the implications for complying with the GDPR and other multinational data protection regulations going forward.
- We will also examine recent European Data Protection Board (EDPB) opinions and discuss how they affect overall compliance strategy.

This document is only available to subscribers

Purchase