

Report on Supply Chain Compliance Volume 3, Number 16. August 20, 2020

US and Canada rekindle trade war

By Sascha Matuszak

United States President Donald Trump announced^[1] Aug. 6 that he would be imposing a 10% tariff on aluminum imports, citing national security concerns and a depressed U.S. domestic aluminum industry. Canadian Deputy Prime Minister Chrystia Freeland responded^[2] with a list of possible targets for retaliatory tariffs.

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login