

CEP Magazine – September 2020

Carmakers selling into EU market are failing to meet emissions goals

---

By Sascha Matuszak

As new European Union targets for auto emissions are set to take force in 2020, the European Environment Agency released preliminary findings that suggest carmakers will be unable to meet the new goals.

This document is only available to members. Please log in or become a member.

Become a Member Login