

Report on Supply Chain Compliance Volume 3, Number 22. November 12, 2020 UK Information Commissioner's Office issues enforcement action against Experian

By Sascha Matuszak

The United Kingdom Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) is requiring Experian to make major changes to how it processes personal data^[1] in the UK. The action falls short of issuing a fine but does threaten fines if Experian fails to meet ICO demands after nine months. Experian has appealed the enforcement action. The requirements are stayed pending the appeal.

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login